In the YFU World, We Realize What Makes Us Unique Unites Us

Exchange doesn't recognize boundaries and neither do our international students. We have many exceptional students with unique personal boundaries that set them apart from the crowd arriving soon. Some of our incoming students have food or pet allergies, dietary restrictions or are vegetarians. Some students have non-life threatening health conditions that make them unique, but sometimes uniqueness unites us!

Does your family prepare gluten-free or meat-free meals? Is your home pet-free due to allergies? Our brave students are ready to venture beyond their personal and national boundaries. Consider opening your home to an eager student of who can relate and appreciate the special care you give to your family. Students from Asia, Europe and South America and Africa are crossing their boundaries and arriving soon.

As one of the world's oldest and largest exchange organizations, YFU has provided study abroad opportunities to over 250,000 high school students for more than 60 years. Families around the world trust YFU because of our reputation for quality, high safety standards and strong support network.

All YFU Students:

- have their own medical insurance
- receive ongoing support in the US from their local volunteer representative
- have English language proficiency and received good grades
- are carefully selected through a rigorous application process
- participate in preparatory orientations before coming to the USA
- have their own spending money

There are a number of unique YFU students ready to break boundaries through study abroad. Are you ready to meet them? Call 1.800.TEENAGE or visit yfuusa.org to learn more today!
